Takara Bio Corporate Governance Policy

I Basic Concept

Guided by Takara Bio corporate philosophy of “Contributing to the health of humankind through the development of revolutionary biotechnologies such as gene therapy,” in order to overcome “the Corona Cliff” and achieve dramatic growth, we will reform our business structure, promote the sustainable growth of the Reagents / Instruments business and dramatic growth of CDMO business, and develop platform technology for biologics development. We will develop a new business strategy aimed at becoming a global platform provider responsible for the infrastructure of the life science industry. In addition, we will create new value and contribute to the realization of a sustainable society through the implementation of our corporate philosophy.

At the same time, we consider it is important to enhance retained earnings in order to implement R&D activities positively. We are currently at the stage of making advance investments in R&D. The current three-year Medium-Term Management Plan FY2026, which will be in its final year in 2026, invests 9,000 million yen in R&D every fiscal year. During this three-year period, we will aiming for operating profit of ¥15,000 million and ROE 8% or more in FY2026, by promoting business strategy and strategy for strengthening the management base and achieving dramatic growth.

Furthermore, appropriate shareholder returns conscious of capital efficiency are also positioned as an important management issue so our basic policy is to return profits while taking management results and financial conditions into overall consideration.

We are conscious that in order to achieve the sustainable growth and the improvement of its medium to long-term corporate value based on the corporate philosophy in this way, it should strive for appropriate cooperation with various stakeholders including shareholders, employees, customers, business partners, creditors, and local communities. Consequently, we need a corporate governance system to promote sincere and fair corporate activities at all times, and will establish and work on the specific policy below.

II Specific Policies on Corporate Governance

1. Securing the Rights and Equal Treatment of Shareholders (General Principle 1)

We shall take appropriate measures for the actual securement of the rights of all shareholders, the maintenance of the environment related to the exercise of rights and the securement of substantial equality.

(1) Securing the Rights of Shareholders (Principle 1-1)

We shall strive to maintain an environment that enables timely and appropriate information disclosure and the smooth exercise of voting rights so that the rights of shareholders, including the right to vote at a General Meeting of Shareholders, can be substantially secured.

- The Board of Directors shall accept sincerely the results of the exercise of voting rights at a General

Meeting of Shareholders, and when there is recognized to be a company proposal to which about 20% of votes object, analyze the reasons for the objection and the cause of the increase in the number of objections, and consider future handling. (Supplementary Principle 1-1[1])

- We have introduced an Executive Officer system aimed at separating the Board of Directors as a management decision-making and supervisory organization from work execution functions based on that decision-making. The Articles of Incorporation stipulate to the effect that we may obtain a resolution on the acquisition of treasury stock, which is part of the agenda of a General Meeting of Shareholders, based on a resolution of the Board of Directors. (Supplementary Principle 1-1[2])
- We shall protect the rights of shareholders and strive for the securement of substantial equality for all shareholders. In addition, with regard to the exercise of rights by shareholders recognized under the Companies Act, such as requests to view the register of shareholders and the minutes of meeting of the Board of Directors, raise a shareholder proposal at a General Meeting of Shareholders, or file for an injunction against an illegal act by Directors or a shareholder lawsuit, etc., we have established the methods for the exercise of rights in the Share Handling Regulations and shall give due regard to ensuring the exercise of those rights is not prevented in fact. (Supplementary Principle 1-1[3])

(2) Exercise of Shareholders Rights at General Shareholders Meetings (Principle 1-2)

We recognize that a General Meeting of Shareholders is a place for constructive dialogue with shareholders and shall set the date and venue for the holding of a meeting so that as many shareholders as possible can attend. In addition, we shall secure practical opportunities for the exercise of rights by holding general meetings of shareholders legally and properly in accordance with laws and regulations, etc. We consider developing an appropriate environment within which shareholders can exercise their voting rights more easily, including the exercise of voting rights via the internet, etc.

- We think that information that may conceivably contribute to shareholders making appropriate judgments at a General Meeting of Shareholders should be provided appropriately as required. For this reason, after being resolved upon by the Board of Directors, we shall disclose the agenda for general meetings of shareholders, which we judge to require a sufficient review period for shareholders, promptly on our website and the “Timely Disclosure Network”, a website of the Tokyo Stock Exchange. (Supplementary Principle 1-2[1])
- We shall strive for the early delivery of notices of the convocation of general meetings of shareholders so that shareholders can secure a sufficient period to review the meeting agenda. In addition, convocation notices shall be sent at least three days prior to the statutory deadline and disclosed on our website and the “Listed Company Search” on the Tokyo Stock Exchange website before being sent. (Supplementary Principle 1-2[2])
- We think that from the perspective that a General Meeting of Shareholders is an opportunity for dialogue with shareholders, we should give consideration to the schedule so that as many shareholders as possible can attend a General Meeting of Shareholders. We shall set the date for holding the General Meeting of Shareholders each year avoiding dates on which many companies’ general meetings of shareholders are predicted to be held. (Supplementary Principle 1-2[3])
- Based on our shareholding ratios of institutional investors and overseas investors, etc., we enable the electronic exercise of voting rights via the internet and uses an electronic platform for the exercise of voting rights as part of the improvement of the environment for institutional investors to exercise voting rights easily. In addition, we also promote the translation into English of notices of convocation to ensure convenience for overseas investors. (Supplementary Principle 1-2[4])
- We currently do not allow an institutional investor, etc., that holds shares in the name of a trust bank, etc., to attend a General Meeting of Shareholders to exercise voting rights in place of the trust bank, etc., in view of consistency with the law and the Articles of Incorporation and the current circumstances of the work of counting voting rights exercised in advance. However, if there is an application for attendance at a General Meeting of Shareholders a considerable period in advance through a shareholder on the register of a trust bank, etc., we will allow attendance. (Supplementary Principle 1-2[5])

(3) Basic Strategy for Capital Policy (Principle 1-3, 1-6)

[1] We think that enhancing retained earnings is important for implementing R&D activities positively.

We are currently at the stage of making advance investments in R&D and in view of the importance of capital efficiency, our policy is to aim for sustainable profit growth while absorbing the increase in R&D expenses for the time being. Consequently, we are positioning operating profit as the most important management indicator for the present.

We also position the return of profits to shareholders as an important management issue, and our basic policy is to return profits giving comprehensive consideration to management results and financial conditions. Specifically, the Company's policy is to pay dividends from retained earnings on the basis of 35% of the estimated net income, which is calculated without taking into account extraordinary gains and losses in the consolidated financial statements. (Principle 1-3)

[2] Our policy in the event that we are to implement capital policies in fund procurement that will bring changes in control or the large-scale dilution of holdings such as capital increase or management buyout (MBOs) is for the Board of Directors to examine in full their necessity and reasonableness, etc., and explain to shareholders and investors in full so that the interests of existing shareholders are not unfairly harmed. (Principle 1-6)

(4) Cross-Shareholdings (Principle 1-4)

We do not currently hold shares of other listed companies as strategic cross-shareholdings, and our basic policy is not to hold any in future either.

(5) Anti-Takeover Measures (Principle 1-5)

We recognize that continuing sustainable growth and improving corporate value is its most important issue, and no anti-takeover measures have been introduced at present.

- If we are subject to a takeover bid, the thinking of the Board of Directors will be disclosed to shareholders promptly, because it may change shareholder composition or affect shareholder interests. In such cases, we shall respect the rights of shareholders and shall not prevent shareholders from responding to the takeover bid. (Supplementary Principle 1-5[1])

(6) Related Party Transactions (Principle 1-7)

We have established the Regulations Governing the Management of Related-Party Transactions as a mechanism to properly check transactions between related parties. We conduct transactions after examining the necessity of transactions and the appropriateness of the terms and conditions of transactions.

- Each year, we regularly request each Director to submit a confirmation document on transactions between related parties, and investigate whether or not we have a majority of voting rights held by its Directors and their relatives, or by which they are represented.
- New transactions with related parties shall be approved by the Board of Directors in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Management of Related Party Transactions.
- In accordance with the Regulations Governing the Management of Related Party Transactions, related party transactions in which transactions continue in the following fiscal year are reviewed and approved by Board of Directors meeting to be held prior to the commencement of the following fiscal year to determine the reasonableness of the continuation of transactions (business necessity) and the appropriateness of the terms and conditions of transactions.

- Competitive transactions and conflict-of-interest transactions of Directors are implemented with the approval of the Board of Directors in accordance with laws and regulations and the Regulations of the Board of Directors, and the results of these transactions are reported to the Board of Directors on a regular basis each year.

2. Appropriate Discussions with Stakeholders Other Than Shareholders (General Principle 2)

We recognize that we should strive for appropriate collaboration with various stakeholders including employees, customers, business partners, creditors and local society in the sustainable growth of us and the creation of medium to long-term corporate value. The Board of Directors and management group shall strive to foster a corporate culture that respects the rights and positions of these stakeholders and the ethics of business activities.

(1) Management Philosophy (Principle 2-1)

In order to realize sustainable growth and medium to long-term improvements in corporate value, we have established the corporate philosophy of “Contributing to the health of humankind through the development of revolutionary biotechnologies such as gene therapy,” and conducts business activities based on this philosophy.

(2) Compliance Action Guidelines (Principle 2-2)

As a member of the Takara Holdings Group, we observe and puts into practice the “Takara Group Compliance Action Guidelines” with respect to appropriate cooperation with various stakeholders, respect for their interests, and sound business activity ethics, etc.

- We shall establish a Compliance Committee with the President & CEO as chair and comprised also of persons appointed by the chair from among Directors and Executive Officers to conduct regular reviews of the state of implementation of the Compliance Action Guidelines. (Principle 2-2[1])

(3) Sustainability (Principle 2-3)

We have established Takara Bio Group Sustainability Management Promotion Policy, and through our business activities we are tackling various social issues related to sustainability, including health, with the aim of achieving both "the realization of a sustainable society" and "the sustainable growth of the Takara Bio Group." In our efforts, we established the Sustainability Promotion Committee, chaired by the President and CEO, and then we will identify materiality and promote sustainability management so that we can contribute to solving social issues through collaboration with stakeholders and collaboration with the Takara Holdings Group.

- We widely support research and business activities leveraging biotechnology in providing reagents, instruments and contracted services. Further, we have positioned the acceleration of alliances with pharma companies and the creation of new clinical development projects as our future dramatic growth strategies, and are advancing the clinical development and commercialization of gene therapy for cancer, etc. Through these efforts, we will create new value and contribute to society by continuing to achieve sustainable growth.
- As one of our management priorities, we will comply with environmental laws and regulations, actively participate in nature conservation activities, and strive to conserve resources and energy. We will strive to reduce the environmental impact generated in all processes, from product research and development and raw material procurement to production, logistics, sales, and consumption.
- Takara Bio headquarters and major facilities for manufacturing and research use structural designs incorporating new construction methods with high environmental performance. In particular, research and manufacturing facilities are implementing initiatives such as the prevention of biohazard risks, and are actively and proactively working on issues related to sustainability, including social and environmental issues. (Supplementary Principle 2-3[1])

(4) Ensuring Diversity (Principle 2-4)

We recognize that the existence of diverse perspectives and values that reflect different experiences, skills and attributes within we can be a strength in securing the sustainable growth of us. Based on this recognition, we are promoting diversity, including the promotion of women's active participation within the company. As support for the creation of a work environment in which female employees can continue to play active roles and the realization of work-life balance, with regard to support for the balancing of childcare and work in particular, we shall promote the positive use of systems such as the control of overtime work hours, application of nursing time, childcare leave, reduced work hours for childcare, infant nursing leave, maternity leave, infant health check leave, and flex-time work, etc. Furthermore, for male employees, we have secured a system allowing them to take accumulated paid leave before and after childbirth by their spouses and allowing fathers to take childcare leave too.

- Based on the concept of promoting the active participation of diverse human resources as stated in the “Takara Bio Group Sustainability Management Promotion Policy”, we are promoting the active participation of diverse human resources, including the active participation of women. The state of such activities is disclosed on our website and other media. In addition, as we expand and grow our business overseas, we have appointed foreign corporate executives and senior employees at overseas group companies. As a result of promotions to date, new hires and appointments of women and mid-career recruits to managerial positions, and the appointment of foreign employees as corporate executives and senior employees at overseas group companies have advanced,,and we will continue to work to ensure the diversity of internal human resources.
- To further enhance our corporate value, we have developed a human resource development program aimed at improving the skills of each and every employee. We are also developing a system that will enable all employees to work with enthusiasm while balancing work and personal life in accordance with their individual lifestyles. The status of implementation is disclosed on our website and elsewhere. (Supplementary Principles 2-4[1])

(5) Whistleblowing (Principle 2-5)

In order to prevent legal violations and fraud, we have established an internal whistle-blowing contact to which employees, etc., can report illegal or inappropriate acts, etc., without concern that they may suffer disadvantage, and has established appropriate systems related to whistle-blowing. The state of operations shall be reported regularly at the Compliance Committee.

- In addition to the internal whistle-blowing contact within the Takara Holdings Group, we have established an internal whistle-blowing contact at an external third party organization independent from the management group. In addition, internal regulations on whistle-blowing state clearly the confidentiality of the whistle-blower and the prohibition of disadvantageous treatment. (Supplementary Principle 2-5[1])

(6) Corporate Pensions (Principle 2-6)

We operate a defined benefit corporate pension plans based on our code. In the management of the defined benefit corporate pension plan, we have established a policy asset composition ratio from a medium to long-term perspective based on the basic policy and investment guidelines, and present this ratio to investment managers. The state of investments by the investment managers is monitored regularly and reviewed as necessary. In addition, employees engaged in corporate pension affairs are assigned with due consideration given to their knowledge and experience. The exercise of the voting rights related to shares held as part of the plan assets is subject to the judgment criteria of the investment trustee, and there are no conflicts of interest.

3. Ensuring Appropriate Information Disclosure and Transparency (General Principle 3)

We shall disclose financial information such as the financial condition and management results, etc., of us and non-financial information such as information on management strategies, management issues, risks and governance, etc., appropriately based on the law. In addition, we shall provide information other than that disclosed based on the law proactively as required and by appropriate methods, and shall strive to ensure that the information disclosed or provided is easy for users to understand and highly usable as information, based on the fact that it will form the foundation for constructive dialogue with shareholders.

(1) Enhancement of Information Disclosure (Principle 3-1)

 - (iv) If an external Accounting Auditor discovers fraud and asks for appropriate action, or points out any deficiencies or problems, each Director in charge shall take the initiative in conducting investigations, making corrections and reporting the results to the Board of Directors based on the instructions of the President & CEO. The Supervisory Board Members shall be mainly composed of full-time Auditors and shall cooperate with Internal Audit Department and related departments to conduct investigations and make any corrections required.

4. Responsibilities of the Board of Directors (General Principle 4)

We shall establish the direction of corporate strategy, etc., at meetings of the Board of Directors and Executive Officers and other important meetings. In addition, we have established the Regulations on the Board of Directors, the Regulations on the Organization, the Regulations on the Division of Duties, and the Regulations on Administrative Authority, etc., and by clarifying the duties and responsibilities of Directors and each department, has established an environment that supports appropriate risk taking by senior management. Moreover, we have established a highly effective system of supervision over Directors by assigning External Directors.

(1) Roles and Responsibilities of Directors and the Board of Directors (Principle 4-1, 4-2, 4-3)

[1] Based on fiduciary responsibility and accountability to shareholders, the Board of Directors shall engage in constructive discussions on the basic policies of us, including its management strategies and management plans, etc., with the participation of External Directors and the free exchange of opinions, in order to promote the sustainable growth of us and improvement of medium to long-term corporate value, and improve profitability and capital efficiency, etc.

(Principle 4-1)

- In the Regulations Governing Meetings of the Board of Directors, we has established mainly the followings as those subject to resolution by the Board of Directors, and delegates matters that do not fall under these to the management team (Directors and Executive Officers). (Supplementary Principle 4-1[1])

- (i) Matters concerning the General Meeting of Shareholders
 - (ii) Personnel affairs of Directors, Executive Officers, and important employees
 - (iii) Matters concerning the accounting of the Company
 - (iv) Matters concerning the disposition and acceptance of important assets that fall under the specific criteria for amounts
 - (v) Other matters stipulated by laws and regulations or the Articles of Incorporation and important business matters, as well as the determination or occurrence of material facts that may affect the Group's operations, work, financial position, or results
- We have formulated a six-year Long-Term Management Plan 2026, which will be in its final fiscal year in 2026 and a three-year Medium-Term Management Plan 2026, which will be in its final fiscal year in 2026, and shall make the utmost efforts towards its realization. When explaining to investors and shareholders at a financial results briefing or General Meeting of Shareholders, etc., we shall do so after conducting sufficient analysis regardless of the results and with reference to the Medium-Term Management Plan at all times, and reflect the results of analysis in the drawing up of the next plan. (Supplementary Principle 4-1[2])
 - Establishment of a process (succession plan) for the development of the next generation of management executives, who will be the successor, such as the CEO, is recognized as an important management issue for achieving sustainable growth and increasing corporate value over the medium to long term. Executive Officers who are not concurrently serving as Directors also attend meetings of the Board of Directors as management team, and participate as observers in our goals and specific management strategies. The Board of Directors will consider the requirements and policies required of the CEO and others, referring to the advice and recommendations of the Nominations and Compensation Committee in light of the business environment surrounding us and our corporate culture. (Supplementary Principle 4-1[3])
 - The appointment and dismissal of the CEO shall be deliberated and examined by the Nominations and Compensation Committee and resolved at the Board of Directors based on the advice and recommendations of the Committee. (Supplementary Principle 4-3[2], 4-3[3])

[2] The Board of Directors has determined the important matters in management after deliberating and examining them fully from multiple perspectives and from an objective standpoint. When approved matters important for management are implemented, we shall support the prompt and decisive decision-making of senior management. In addition, the remuneration of Directors is divided clearly into fixed compensation based on a resolution of a General Meeting of Shareholders and a performance-linked portion for Directors other than External Directors. Based on the performance evaluation method approved by the Board of Directors, the amounts of remuneration for Executive Directors and Executive Officers consist of a part in accordance with their position, a part in accordance with our results for the single fiscal year and a part in accordance with divisional results for a single fiscal year. The remuneration for Directors shall be determined by the President & CEO upon delegation by a resolution of the Board of Directors after consultation with other Directors and deliberation by the Nominations and Compensation Committee within the limit of the total amount of remuneration based on a resolution of the General Meeting of Shareholders. (Principle 4-2)

- We have introduced a cash-based compensation system that is linked to medium- to long-term performance, but do not have a stock-based compensation system in place. Going forward, we recognize that Director incentives for sustainable growth are an important management issue, and the Board of Directors will consider the ratio of remuneration between cash and stock, including the method of determining overall remuneration, with reference to advice and recommendations provided by the Nominations and Compensation Committee. (Supplementary Principle 4-2[1])

- We monitor our businesses using management indicators that are conscious of capital profitability and efficiency, and use the results to allocate management resources and business portfolio strategies in order to achieve sustainable growth. (Supplementary Principle 4-2[2])

[3] At the Company, the President & CEO shall conduct evaluations through discussions with other Directors taking into comprehensive account objective indicators on our results, etc., and the level of contribution of individual senior management members, and other qualitative factors, etc., and subsequently make proposals on the personnel affairs of senior management members based on those results to the Board of Directors for its resolution.

In order to disclose information in a timely and appropriate manner, we shall establish a person responsible for information handling to share information on the Board of Directors. In addition, we shall manage conflicts of interest that occur with related parties such as management group members and controlling shareholders, etc., in accordance with the Regulations on the Control of Transactions with Related Parties. (Principle 4-3) (Supplementary Principle 4-3[1])

- We have established a Compliance Committee and Internal Control Committee, built systems to prevent the occurrence of risks and manage risks, and shall implement appropriate risk control. The Compliance Committee and the Internal Control Committee shall report the details of their activities to the Board of Directors, and the Board of Directors shall focus on supervision of whether those systems has established appropriately and its operations are being carried out effectively. The Internal Audit Department reports to the Board of Directors twice a year the results of audits, including the status of internal controls and the establishment of a company-wide risk management system. (Supplementary Principle 4-3[4])

(2) Roles and Responsibilities of Auditors and the Supervisory Board Meeting (Principle 4-4)

The Auditors and the Supervisory Board Meeting make appropriate judgments from an independent and objective standpoint regarding the fulfillment of their roles and responsibilities, such as auditing the execution of the duties of the Directors, appointing and dismissing the Auditors and External Accounting Auditors, and exercising authority concerning audit remuneration. In addition, the Auditors not only conduct business audits and Accounting audits appropriately through attending meetings of the Board of Directors and various important management meetings, and by exchanging opinions with the management and the Internal Audit Department, etc., but also provide opinions appropriately to the management when deemed necessary. (Principle 4-4)

- Three of the five Auditors of us shall be External Auditors. Based on the audit policy and audit implementation plan formulated by the Supervisory Board Meeting, the Auditors have adopted a system of attending meeting of the Board of Directors and other important meetings, receiving reports on the state of execution of duties from Directors, etc., viewing important documents, etc., and auditing the execution of the duties of Directors through surveys of the state of duties and property. The Auditors shall collaborate with the External Accounting Auditors and Internal Audit Department, and collaborate with External Directors as required. (Supplementary Principle 4-4[1])

(3) Fiduciary Responsibility of Directors and Auditors, etc. (Principle 4-5)

We shall provide stakeholders with the information they require in a timely and appropriate manner to fulfill their fiduciary responsibilities to shareholders and to enhance the common interests of us and shareholders. In addition, the Board of Directors shall deliberate over the disclosure of important information and act based on objective opinions, including those of External Officers.

(4) Independent Directors (Principle 4-6, 4-7, 4-8, 4-9)

[1] We shall assign three independent Directors and aim for their effective use, such as adopting systems, etc., that enhance the work execution supervision function of our Board of Directors by receiving advice and recommendations for the sustainable growth of us and the improvement of medium to long-term corporate value, etc., from the External Directors and non-Executive Directors from an independent position and based on experience and knowledge clearly delineated from the senior management of us. (Principle 4-6)

[2] Our Independent Directors shall monitor and supervise from an independent standpoint through management policies, management improvements, conflict of interest transactions that occur with related parties such as management group members and controlling shareholders, etc., the assignment and dismissal of senior management, and other important decision-making of the Board of Directors based on their abundant experience and knowledge. (Principle 4-7)

[3] We currently appoint three independent Directors, one-third of the nine total Directors. Independent Directors exchange neutral opinions with each Director, Auditors, management team, etc. from an independent and objective perspective, and fully fulfill our duties as an Independent Director. (Principle 4-8)

- The independent Directors shall work on the sustainable growth of us and the improvement of corporate value, including seeking explanations and improvements from the President & CEO, etc., as required. We strive to establish an environment within which independent Directors can grasp the state of execution of duties more accurately, such as increasing opportunities for dialogue with Directors and the management group, etc. (Supplementary Principle 4-8[1])
- In principle, the basic policy of us shall be to assign independent Directors to at least one-third of Director positions, giving overall consideration to business characteristics and the environment surrounding us, etc. At present, we have a system with three independent Directors, and has established systems for them to communicate and coordinate with the management group and to cooperate with the Auditors or the Supervisory Board Meeting to exchange information and share awareness. (Supplementary Principle 4-8[2])
- To protect the interests of minority shareholders, we have established a special committee under the Board of Directors to provide appropriate advice and recommendations. The committee is composed of three or more independent members, including independent Directors and Auditors, and the chairperson is to be selected from among its members, ensuring the independence of the committee. The Committee deliberates and examines matters related to significant transactions and acts that conflict with the interests of our parent company or its subsidiaries and our minority shareholders, and advises and makes recommendations to the Board of Directors. (Supplementary Principle 4-8[3])

[4] As shown in Appendix 1, we have established “Judgment Criteria for the Assignment and Independence of External Officers”. In accordance with these criteria, the Board of Directors deliberates on, considers, and selects candidates for independent Director. (Principle 4-9)

(5) Use of Optional Approach (Principle 4-10)

We have adopted the form of a company with an Audit and Supervisory Board, but in order to realize effective corporate governance for shareholders and other stakeholders, we have also established optional committee such as a Compliance Committee and Internal Control Committee, the Sustainability Promotion Committee, the Nominating and Compensation Committee, and the Special Committee to further enhance control functions.

- In order to ensure the independence and objectivity of the functions of the Board of Directors with respect to the nomination of candidates for Director and the compensation of Directors, we have established a Nominations and Compensation Committee under the Board of Directors, which consists primarily of independent Directors, to obtain appropriate advice and recommendations. The independence of the committee is ensured because the committee is composed of three or more members, the majority of whom are External Directors, and the chairperson of the committee is to be selected from among the External Directors. The committee deliberates and considers the nomination of Directors, candidates and the individual remuneration of Directors prior to a resolution of the Board of Directors, and gives advice and makes suggestions to the Board of Directors based on the results. (Supplementary Principle 4-10[1])

(6) Ensuring the Effectiveness of the Board of Directors and Supervisory Board Meeting (Principle 4-11, 4-12)

[1] The Board of Directors is composed of individuals with specialized knowledge and extensive experience in areas such as management, finance, human resources, marketing, development, manufacturing, and quality assurance in a manner that balances diversity and appropriate size, including in terms of gender, internationality, career, age, etc., and effectively fulfills the roles and responsibilities of the Board of Directors. In addition, we have appointed persons with knowledge of finance, accounting, and legal affairs to serve as the Auditors. Two of the five Auditors possess sufficient knowledge of finance, accounting, and legal affairs. (Principle 4-11)

- The Board of Directors is composed of Directors with advanced expertise and experience in each business, and independent Directors who possess a wealth of experience and broad insight, and provide advice and recommendations from the perspective of all stakeholders, including shareholders, based on their extremely high level of expertise.
